Serious case review digs up 'missed opportunities' to save child victims

BULLFINCH: WHAT WENT WRONG?

Sara Thornton, chief constable of Thames Valley Police:
"We are ashamed of the shortcomings identified in this report and we are determined to do all we can to ensure that nothing like this ever happens again."

Nicola Blackwood, the Conservative MP for Oxford West and Abingdon:
"No Oxford resident can read this review without being deeply shocked by the depths of depravity that flourished for too many years on our streets."

Bob Price, the Labour leader of Oxford City Council:
"The crimes inflicted on these young girls over several years were horrific and will have devastating life-long effects on the girls and their parents."

Christian Bunt, local policing area commander for Oxford:
"Over the last few years we have been working to ensure that we have measures in place to identify and prevent child sexual exploitation in the city."

POLICE and city leaders have apologised for the serious failings in dealing with child sexual exploitation on Oxford's streets after the publication of a damning report on Tuesday.

The Oxfordshire Safeguarding Children Board (OSCB)'s serious case review into the experiences of six young girls revealed numerous opportunities to stop street grooming had been missed.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The report reveals the girls' accounts were often not believed, thought to be exaggerating, or even blamed for their own behaviour.

One girl's school health record describes her as 'prostituting herself'.

It describes the organisational response across Oxfordshire as "weak", criticising the lack of joint working between agencies such as police, social services and schools which led to reports of sexual abuse not being investigated.

But the review said it found no evidence of wilful neglect.

Maggie Blyth, chair of the OSCB, said: "I am deeply saddened and shocked by what happened to these children.

"I will do everything in my power to ensure the programme of change continues and agencies are evidencing what they are doing to safeguard children here in Oxfordshire."

The report comes after seven men were jailed for almost 100 years for 59 offences relating to child sexual abuse in May 2013 as part of the Operation Bullfinch investigation.

Up to 373 girls may have been abused in Oxfordshire

A TOTAL of 373 children are thought to have been sexually exploited in Oxfordshire over the last 16 years, a report revealed on Tuesday.

The figure was exposed as the Oxfordshire Safeguarding Children Board (OSCB) published a serious case review into child sexual exploitation in the county.

It revealed numerous failings by authorities while children were being sexually exploited between 2005 and 2010.

The report, by independent reviewer Alan Bedford, was based on the experiences of six of the girls, before Operation Bullfinch was launched in 2011 to deal with the problem.

Oxfordshire County Council and Thames Valley Police in particular were criticised for a lack of understanding.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

It accused authorities of treating the victims, some as young as 13, as young adults who were in control of their own actions.

And fundamental problems of joint working between the various agencies with a responsibility of care to the victims was also blamed.

Maggie Blyth, independent chair of the OSCB, said: "It is shocking that these children were subjected to such appalling sexual exploitation for so long.

"It is clear between 2005 and 2010 despite the efforts of some front line staff working with children individually, there was no understanding of the type of abuse which later emerged.

"On behalf of the OSCB I would like to apologise for how long it took organisations in Oxfordshire to see what was happening to these children and bring the perpetrators to justice."

In a statement, Oxfordshire County Council said it accepted the findings of the review, and apologised that the multi-agency protection system failed to protect the six girls.

Jim Leivers, the council's director for children, education and families, said: "We fully accept that we made many mistakes and missed opportunities to stop the abuse.

"The girls suffered dreadfully at the hands of these violent men, and despite many attempts we failed to keep them safe while they were in our care.

"We are totally committed to tackling this abuse and the county council has already implemented all the recommendations for improvement."

• OSCB chair Maggie Blyth addressing media at The Oxford Hotel

Thames Valley Police chief constable Sara Thornton said: "The independent review highlighted agencies including Thames Valley Police could have identified the exploitation between 2005 and 2010 earlier than it did and many errors were made.

"We are ashamed of the shortcomings identified."

Operation Bullfinch: Crimes finally uncovered

TUESDAY'S serious case review came in response to Operation Bullfinch, an ongoing investigation by police into child sexual exploitation in Oxfordshire.

It was launched in 2011, and in May 2013 saw seven men jailed for a total of 95 years.

Kamir Jamil, Akhtar Dogar, Anjum Dogar, Assad Hussain, Mohammed Karrar, Bassam Karrar and Zeeshan Ahmed, all of Oxford and aged 27 to 38, were jailed for 59 charges including rape, facilitating child prostitution and trafficking.

The crimes took place between 2004 and January 2012, mostly at the Nanford Guest House in Iffley Road, Oxford.

Two more men, Mustafa Ahmed and Bilal Ahmed, were jailed in June last year, each for one count of sexual assault.

Between November 2012 and November 2014 a total of 206 children displaying signs of sexual abuse were referred to police by officers, parents, and schools.

And 15 people have been charged with 85 sexual offences in Oxfordshire between April 1, 2013 and December 31, 2014, with 47 people charged with 201 sexual offences in the Thames Valley.

Of the 47, 14 have been convicted and sentenced to a combined 64 years in prison, with the rest standing or awaiting trial.

• The nine men jailed as part of Operation Bullfinch

The serious case review:

STATEMENTS from the report:

• One of the victims found with several Asian adult males told the author that the police did not even ask her age.

• There was evidence of some of the girls having sex with adult males in their family homes, seemingly with parental knowledge.

• Concerns about what might be happening (before child sexual exploitation was properly recognised) were not discussed in the higher reaches of the council (or police).

• There was an assumption that the children were better off in care, and even safer in secure accommodation. This proved not to be the case.

• Every Local Safeguarding Children Board should assume that sexual exploitation occurs within its area unless there is clear evidence to the contrary.

• There was very little use of disruption tactics before Bullfinch; although several such tactics were known and available.

QUOTES from the report:

• One of the victims said: "I got told [the Kingfisher team] was for girls who were being exploited. I didn't think I was being exploited."

• The detective chief superintendent currently overseeing child sexual exploitation work in Oxfordshire said: "There were attempts at investigation throughout the period but they were not sustained or coordinated or prioritised."

• From Children's Social Care (CSC)'s internal management report: "The girls learned that adults could hit them and nothing would happen and this added to their de-sensitisation and vulnerability."

• A senior social work manager said: "The police response lacked curiosity – they would pick the child up, give them a telling off and drop them back at the children's home."

• Ofsted said: "Until very recently, child sexual exploitation has not been treated as the priority that events in Rotherham and elsewhere strongly suggest it should have been."

Jail terms proposed for neglectful professionals

NEW criminal sanctions that could lead to care workers, teachers and councillors being jailed for up to five years if they wilfully neglect children being sexually exploitated were announced by the Prime Minister on Tuesday.

Following the serious case review into child sexual exploitation in Oxfordshire, David Cameron unveiled proposed new measures designed to protect young people from sexual abuse nationwide.

The government is set to consult on extending the criminal offence of 'wilful neglect' of patients to children's social care, education and elected members.

Also announced was a new helpline to report bad practice, and that child sexual abuse will now be prioritised as a national threat so police forces now have a duty to collaborate with each other.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Mr Cameron said: "I am sending an unequivocal message that professionals who fail to protect children will be held properly accountable and council bosses who preside over such catastrophic failure will not see rewards for that failure.

"Children were ignored, sometimes even blamed, and issues were swept under the carpet.

"That culture of denial which let them down so badly must be eradicated.

"We owe it to our children, and to the children who survive horrific sexual abuse, to do better and ensure the mistakes of the past are never repeated again."

The government response was led by home secretary Theresa May following the revelations that 1,400 children were sexually abused in Rotherham, as well as the 373 in Oxfordshire.

Ms May said: "We must stamp out the culture of denial that allows organisations and individuals to avoid the issues and be clear that people who abuse children must be stopped.

"We cannot allow professionals to avoid tackling the sexual abuse of children by members of ethnic minority communities for fear of being seen as racist.

"There is no culture in which sexual abuse is not a serious crime and there is never any excuse for failing to bring its perpetrators to justice."

• David Cameron chaired a Downing Street summit into child sexual exploitation on Tuesday (picture from David Cameron's Twitter account)

Anthony Stansfeld, Thames Valley Police and Crime Commissioner:
"It took too long to work out this went a lot further, this was a large organised gang exploiting underage children, and it was clearly unacceptable."

Andrew Smith, the Labour MP for Oxford East:
"I've pressed the government for an independent inquiry into the appalling Bullfinch failings. Someone must take responsibility."

NHS

A joint statement on behalf of Oxfordshire's NHS organisations:
"As the main health organisations that had contact with the victims, we regret that the abuse was not uncovered and information acted on sooner."

What is being done to stop this from happening again?

BOTH Oxfordshire County Council and Thames Valley Police have detailed a list of measures they have taken to ensure that the failings revealed by the review don't occur again.

In November 2012, the Kingfisher team was set up to work closely with potential victims of sexual exploitation in the wake of Operation Bullfinch.

The county council has trained 7,500 staff to look for warning signs of child sexual exploitation, including teachers, care workers and school nurses.

Police have also increased their funding for specialist resources into child sexual exploitation investigations by more than £3million.

And from September 2014 a Multi-Agency Safeguarding Hub has been in operation, intended to allow for more efficient joint working between the agencies that are involved in a child's welfare.

John Campbell, assistant chief constable at Thames Valley Police, said: "Certainly from 2005 to 2010 we let those young girls down and we all acknowledge that with the findings of the report.

He added: "Since that time, and it's not just as a consequence of the review, we've put a considerable amount of effort into making sure we're able to safeguard young children better than we've ever been able to do so before."

Hudspeth makes u-turn on chief executive post

PLANS to axe the chief executive post at Oxfordshire County Council could be overturned after the authority's leader Ian Hudspeth admitted he "may have acted hastily" in making the decision.

On February 17 councillors voted to get rid of the post after current chief executive Joanna Simons announced she would be stepping down in the summer.

• Ian Hudspeth

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The move had been put forward by Cllr Hudspeth as a cost-cutting measure to save the council £250,000.

But he backtracked last Thursday after receiving legal advice that the decision could not stand without returning to full council, and added that he was taking the opportunity to review the proposal.

He said: "I still believe the county council can operate successfully without a chief executive, but I accept concerns raised by council members about the risks.

"That is why it is right that we take more time to consider the options and include the views of all members.

"Leadership is about listening, and I accept I may have acted hastily and I am sorry this happened.

"However I acted with the best of intentions so the saving could be included as part of the budget process.

"The council faces unprecedented budget pressures, and we need to act boldly to reduce costs while continuing to deliver good services."

• Joanna Simons

Ms Simons is set to receive a compensation package of £151,147 and an early pension payout of £422,796 from the council when she steps down in June.

She currently earns £186,097 a year - £15,508 a month – and has been in the role for the past 10 years.

The announcement came ahead of the serious case review into Operation Bullfinch, published on Tuesday, that heavily criticised the county council for not doing more to prevent child sex exploitation in Oxfordshire.

Fireworks raise hundreds

A SPECTACULAR fireworks display lit up the skies above Didcot on Saturday as part of a fundraising event organised by charity Play2Give.

The Evening of Play2Giving Entertainment party was held at Didcot Town Football Club on February 21, including a fireworks display, disco and chilli eating contest.

More than £550 was raised at the event, which will be split between the John Radcliffe Hospital's Paediatric Eye Fund and brain injury charity Headway Oxfordshire.

Andrew Baker, founder of Play2Give, said: "Everyone that came enjoyed themselves and it was just a fantastic night.

"It was a spectacular fireworks display, probably the best fireworks the town has ever seen."

Girl forced to inappropriately touch teenager

POLICE are looking for a teenage boy who forced a 13-year-old girl to touch him inappropriately while she was walking through Caldecott Recreation Ground in Abingdon last Wednesday.

It happened at around 4pm, when the teenager walked past her, grabbed her wrist, and forced her to touch him.

The girl managed to push the boy away and was then able to escape through a gap in the fence onto Caldecott Road and towards Tuberville Road.

The offender is described as white, about 16 or 17-years-old, and of slim build.

He was wearing a bright pink long sleeved hooded top with the hood pulled up.

Detective Inspector Paul Powell said: "I'd like to reassure the public that incidents such as this one are rare in Abingdon.

"Our neighbourhood teams will be running extra patrols in the area over the next week.

"Can I ask that anyone who witnessed the incident or saw anyone matching the suspect's description to please call us on 101."

Alternatively, call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555111.

Edward's marathon task for Skye's charity

A RADLEY man is tackling three half marathons over the next three weekends to raise money for Blue Skye Thinking – a charity set up in honour of an Abingdon boy who died last year.

Edward Blagrove, 32, is running the Cambridge half marathon on Sunday, followed by the North London half marathon on March 15 before his final race in Reading on March 22.

He is hoping to raise thousands of pounds for the charity, which was created by his friend Sally Hall and her husband Andrew in July last year after their son Skye was diagnosed with a brain tumour.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Five-year-old Skye died on August 29, and the charity has been campaigning and raising funds for research into brain tumours in children.

"When Skye was diagnosed there was a sense of disbelief among our group of friends," said Edward.

"I suppose in some ways there still is, but running events such as these helps me to remember and honour Skye.

"When I am out training it gets tough, my knees are not as strong as they used to be and distance running doesn't come naturally to me, but then you think of Skye and it spurs you on.

"I am running for Blue Skye Thinking so that more money can be raised, as well as awareness, and so that fewer children need suffer in the future."

Edward also took part in the Oxford half marathon in October last year, where he and three friends raised £400 for the charity.

Skye's mum Sally said: "What a challenge Edward has set for himself.

"Three half marathons over three consecutive Sundays has definitely got a feel of March madness about it.

"But if anyone can do it, I know Edward can.

"Good luck, and we'll be there to cheer him on."

More traffic misery on the A34

COMMUTERS in southern Oxfordshire were left stuck in lengthy delays after a lorry overturned on the A34 near Abingdon last Thursday, closing the road for almost 11 hours.

The lorry crashed at just after 4.10am on the southbound carriageway near the Marcham Interchange, closing the road between the junction and Hinksey.

As well as police and Highways Agency contractors, fire crews were also called to deal with a chemical leak before the lorry could be recovered.

Station manager Paul Webster said: "Fire crews wearing breathing apparatus and protective clothing entered the overturned vehicle to identify chemicals and prevent them leaking into the local water courses.

"This took some time due to the vehicle containing a multitude of hazardous chemicals."

The lorry was recovered and towed to a specialist chemical waste company, with the road fully reopening at around 3pm that afternoon.

Cloudy2Clear Windows - Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes - not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Josh Florey feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service Oxfordshire from their local depots and Josh is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Josh a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Oxford houses now less affordable than London

THE difference between average pay and house prices in Oxford is now higher than London, new research by an Oxford University professor shows.

Between October 2014 and January this year, Oxford house prices rose to more than 15 times the average annual income.

This is compared to houses costing 14 times the average salary in London.

The research was published by Danny Dorling, the university's Halford Mackinder professor of geography.

He said: "Compared with earlier decades, house prices across the UK are extremely high when compared with the average take home pay.

"The more 'affordable' parts of the country also have high ratios that just look relatively better compared with the unprecedented expense of current housing costs in London and Oxford."

The average cost of a house in Oxford in 2014 was £426,720, while the average salary for the city's workers was £26,500.

In London, while the average house price is higher at £501,520, workers in the capital were paid an annual income of £31,950 last year.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

Professor Dorling added: "Fewer and fewer people are able to get a mortgage as stricter tests are imposed to prevent banks from lending as recklessly as they did before.

"Meanwhile, at least a third of those with mortgages would struggle if mortgages were to rise by even a couple of percentage points at some point in future years.

"The further that house prices rise, the greater that proportion will grow, leaving a growing proportion of people with no option but to rent."

Other UK cities with high house prices compared to incomes were Cambridge, at 14.8 times higher, Brighton, at 12.2 times higher, and Reading – eight times higher.

The cheapest was Liverpool, where house prices are 5.8 times more than the average salary.

Northcourt trees get the axe

A ROW of trees that ran alongside Abingdon and Witney College's building in Northcourt Road, Abingdon, has been removed.

The trees were taken down last month, and will be replaced by a smaller hedge.

It comes as refurbishment on the outside of the college's main building is completed, with work continuing on redeveloping the interior.

College principal Teresa Kelly said: "We could not be more excited for everyone to see the huge changes the college has undergone.

"We are in the top 10 per cent of colleges nationally, and we want our facilities to be at the same standard.

"The new buildings will allow us to extend our provision and provide newer and more advanced facilities for students, improving their employability skills once they leave."

Work has also recently started at the college's Witney campus, where the former magistrates' court is being demolished to make way for new buildings that will include classrooms, six computer suites and a construction workshop.

Oxford vs Cambridge: the Boat Race countdown

THE Iffley Road Sports Centre in Oxford has seen its fair share of sporting excellence, most famously when Roger Bannister broke the four-minute mile on the site's running track.

And it is also the training base of Oxford University Boat Club, who are hard at work preparing for the Boat Race against Cambridge on April 11.

Six mornings a week the rowers vying for a highly sought-after seat in one of the most prestigious boat races in the world come to Iffley Road to continue preparations for the big day.

And with just over five weeks to go, all of the hopefuls are working hard to be picked.

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

The crew selection is set to be announced on March 19.

> "It's two boats, and the one race that matters."

"Obviously it's exciting and busy, but I'm having a good time doing it," said Will Hakim, who's aiming to cox the boat this year.

"We usually do about half our sessions at Iffley and half out on the water, and things really start to ramp up before the race.

"The race is a really amazing event.

"I think with the history and the profile, it's really cool to be involved in that."

Another rower hoping to make his debut in this year's race is Morgan Gerlak, who has previously competed for Brown University in America and at the Under 23 World Rowing Championships.

He said: "This year has been a big adaptation for me from the States, but it's definitely a humbling experience to be over here studying and rowing with Oxford.

"It's completely different. Everything from the culture to the technique to the general approach to rowing – it's really hard to compare."

This year sees three-time Boat Race winner Constantine Louloudis take over as president of the boat club, as he aims to bring home victory number four.

Stan has also got an Olympic bronze medal from London 2012 to his name, as well as gold from last year's World Rowing Championships in Amsterdam.

"There's a sort of adage that the president underperforms when he's in the role because there's a lot of extra work," said Stan.

"Thankfully, I don't think that's happening so that's good.

"It's become a bit more of a personal thing, I just want to go to this race and get four wins and really cement Oxford's advantage and show what a good thing were doing here.

"It's two boats, and the one race that matters."

Budding City traders net £20k in virtual FTSE 100

PUPILS at King Alfred's Academy in Wantage have won a place in the semi-finals of a national investment competition after they outperformed the FTSE 100 share index.

Chris West, 16, Ethan Ridgway, 16, Jack Sheppard, 15, and Rhys Douglas, 15, fought off competition from more than 30,000 other students UK-wide to reach the semi-finals of the ifs Student Investor Challenge.

The team made more than £20,000 dealing with virtual shares between October and January, and are currently building their portfolio for the end of the semi-final stage on March 13.

By Adam Flinn

Jack said: "It took a while to get used to interpreting the different facts and figures – a lot of it is down to gut instinct."

Chris added: "If you choose the wrong company, it can be fatal to your whole portfolio."

Justin Hayward, head of digital technology and business at the academy, said: "To make over a 20 per cent return on their original investment is a phenomenal achievement given the recent stock market volatility.

"A career in the City awaits for these successful 'Wolves of Wantage'."

The competition sees teams given £100,000 of virtual money to buy and sell shares in FTSE 100 companies, with the aim of making as big a profit as possible.

If successful at the semi-final, the team will head to the finals on April 30 to compete for an all-expenses paid trip to New York and £2,000 for the school.

The competition is run by ifs University College - a London-based university college for financial education.

Vice principal Alison Pask, said: "This competition gives students the opportunity to gain first-hand experience of making investment decisions, which will benefit them throughout their lives when making financial choices. It also introduces them to core concepts such as risk, reward and diversification.

"This is a real achievement and many congratulations go to the team from King Alfred's."

Dignity and security in retirement

WE have set out a crucial theme of our forthcoming manifesto – a Britain that offers everyone dignity and security in retirement.

The case is simple. If you've worked hard during your life, saved, paid your taxes, done the right thing, you deserve dignity and security when you retire.

This comes back to our values over the type of country we want to build: a country where you get something for something, not something for nothing.

That's why we have committed to protect the Winter Fuel Payment, free bus passes, TV licenses, prescriptions and eye tests again.

It all comes back to our long-term economic plan.

It is only with a long-term economic plan and one for each constituency that we will have the money to pay for any of this.

Let's look at the details of what we are proposing to do.

We will reward those who have worked hard by continuing to increase Basic State Pension by the triple lock.

We will also reward saving by introducing a new single-tier pension. Alongside this, we will give people the freedom to invest and spend their pension as they like and pass it on to loved ones tax-free.

We will also give everyone the help they deserve by protecting pensioner benefits like the free bus pass, TV licences and winter fuel payment.

This all comes down to the strength of our economy. With a strong economy we can ensure we protect the NHS and make sure no-one is forced to sell their home to pay for care.

UKIP in the Wantage constituency for Didcot, Faringdon, Shrivenham, Wallingford & Wantage

I'm standing for Parliament because I believe we need a local MP willing to put the rights of our communities ahead of party politics. We need an MP prepared to speak out against massive new housing developments blighting our towns and villages, and we need an MP to work for the needs of our communities today.

I want to secure vital local services for you and your family - not see £12bn per year thrown at arbitrary foreign aid targets.

As your local MP, I will

- Challenge the biased and flawed housing reports which demand we take a share of 106,000 new homes in Oxfordshire by 2031.
- Work with all tiers of government to identify and prioritise building on brown-field sites.
- Call for an inquiry into the future of Thames Water. Why should our households pay £80 per year for the Super Sewer in London?

I will promote key UKIP policies including

- The right to control our borders. We want a points based system which applies to everybody, regardless of country of origin.
- A Treasury commission to investigate the tax affairs of multinational companies. Those who trade here should pay a new Turnover Tax.

School burgled

HARWELL: Police are appealing for information after thieves broke into three outbuildings and a greenhouse at Harwell Primary School last month.

Between 6.45pm on February 13 and 3pm the following day, a battery from a go-kart was stolen and buildings damaged.

Fire extinguishers were also thrown onto the grass, and a storage container door broken.

Hockmore fire

OXFORD: The fifth floor of the Hockmore residential tower block in Cowley was evacuated last Wednesday after a fire broke out in one of the flats.

Fire crews were called at 10.32am, with 40 fire fighters involved at the height of the incident.

Incident commander Mike Adcock said: "Due to working smoke alarms the occupants were alerted to the fire and were able to get out of the flat to a place of safety quickly."

Free insulation

WEST OXON: Residents are being reminded they have until the end of March to apply for 100 per cent funding support for loft and cavity wall insulation from the district council.

Local Plan finalised for 10k more homes in West

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

PLANS for more than 10,000 houses to be built in West Oxfordshire by 2031 were approved by the district council last week.

Councillors finalised the Local Plan at a meeting last Wednesday, which proposes building an average of 525 new homes each year.

Around 3,700 of the homes will be built around Witney, and 2,600 in the Carterton area.

A further 1,800 have been allocated for Chipping Norton, 1,600 in Eynsham and Woodstock, and 800 in Burford and Charlbury.

Also included in the plan are new junctions with the A40 at Down's Road and Shore's Green in Witney, and in the long term a second river crossing for the town.

Warwick Robinson, the council's cabinet member for strategic planning and housing, said: "It is of vital importance to our district that we get our Local Plan into place.

"We would like to reassure the public that we have looked into every detail and, where concerns have been raised, thorough investigations carried out before this final draft was composed.

"It has been a long and drawn out process to reach the pivotal stage we are now at and, while we recognise we cannot please everyone, we believe that our approach is the best for West Oxfordshire."

The housing figure proposed by the district council comes to 10,500 houses being built between 2011 and 2031.

Last year the Strategic Housing Market Assessment (SHMA) for Oxfordshire said that West Oxfordshire should be providing 13,200 homes during that period.

However the council said that more recent analysis carried out since then supported the figure they were proposing.

The plan will be submitted to the Secretary of State Eric Pickles for examination later in the year and, if approved, put into place.

Uni starts search for new poetry professor

• Oxford University's current Professor of Poetry Sir Geoffrey Hill ends his term in May

OXFORD University will begin its search for the next Professor of Poetry in May, it was announced on Thursday.

Sir Geoffrey Hill's term comes to an end this year, and he will give his last public lectures on March 10 and May 5.

An election will be held from May 22 to June 17 with voting open to members of Convocation – a body that includes former students and members of the university's 'parliament', known as Congregation.

The result will then be announced at the Convocation's meeting on June 19.

Seamus Perry, chair of the board of the Faculty of English at the university, said: "Oxford's professorship of poetry is one of the most famous and illustrious positions in the world of letters.

"The chair has been occupied by some of our greatest writers, both poets and critics.

"It has been an honour and a delight to have Geoffrey Hill in the post, and he will be a hard act to follow."

Previous holders of the post have included religious leader John Keble and Victorian poet Matthew Arnold.

Pupils paint faces to fundraise for charity

By Adam Flinn
adam@taylornewspapers.co.uk

CHILDREN from St Amand's Primary School in East Hendred have been painting their faces to fundraise for people affected by weather disasters around the world.

The youngsters had their faces decorated last Friday to recognise a Myanmar tradition in which children's faces are painted with a paste.

Money raised by the school will be sent to the Catholic Church in England's official aid agency CAFOD as part of their Lent Fast Day appeal, which is focussing on supporting people rebuilding after floods and storms.

St Amand's headteacher Helen Ellery said: "Our children have been learning about how young people around the world are being affected by climate change.

"As teachers, we're always trying to get pupils to think about how we can help our neighbours, so we're proud that they are showing their concern for people in other countries.

• Children from St Amand's Primary School with their painted faces last Friday

"We got the idea for face painting from the thanaka used in Myanmar and thought that it would be a great way to fundraise for a great cause whilst showing solidarity for our brothers and sisters worldwide."

CAFOD provides funding to communities in Asia, Africa and Latin America when weather disasters strike, and helps people to rebuild their lives.

Justine Greening, Secretary of State for International Development, said: "By fundraising this Lent, the students of St Amand's are making a real difference to people around the world whose lives are vulnerable to floods and devastating storms.

"That is why the UK is doubling donations to CAFOD's important appeal, to help even more families across Africa and Asia withstand the effects of extreme weather.

"This means around 450,000 people will be better prepared to rebuild their lives when natural disasters strike."

Future of WW1 project secure with £50k grant

THE future of a social media project documenting the story of a First World War soldier has been secured after it received a £50,000 grant from government.

WW1 Soldier's Tale, set up by Ardington-based communications company DNA, is describing the life of the fictional soldier Walter Carter in real time 100 years on from the day it happened.

The project, which launched last year, aims to engage teenagers using social media to follow the story and find out more about the war.

Didcot and Wantage MP Ed Vaizey helped get the grant.

He said: "Getting young people today to encourage with the real impact of the First World War is a challenge, but this project is a truly imaginative and effective way to do just that.

"I know young people are already checking out the Facebook page to see the latest information and I'm sure that they'll do just that in ever increasing numbers as the stories unfold.

"I am delighted the future of this project is more secure."

To view the project, go to ww1soldierstale.co.uk.

Sudoku

The objective is to fill a 9×9 grid with digits so that each column, each row, and each of the nine 3×3 sub-grids that compose the grid (also called "boxes", "blocks", "regions", or "sub-squares") contains all of the digits from 1 to 9. The puzzle setter provides a partially completed grid, which for a well-posed puzzle has a unique solution.

Talent show to UK tour

• (From left to right) Jamie Lambert, Michael Auger, Richard Hadfield, Thomas Redgrave and Matt Pagan

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

FOLLOWING their win on Britain's Got Talent last year, operatic boy band Collabro will be visiting the New Theatre Oxford on March 6, as part of their debut UK tour.

Specialising in musical theatre, the five lads - Michael Auger, Richard Hadfield, Jamie Lambert, Matt Pagan and Thomas Redgrave - are travelling Carlisle to Bournemouth to perform numbers from their first album, 'Stars', which peaked at number one in the album charts last summer.

"This is an all-round massive show," Matthew Pagen said.

"It's all about songs from the first album with a couple of surprises thrown in.

"We've also got Philippa Hannah opening for us and of course Lucy Kay, which is going to be such a laugh. Lucy is just one of the lads really and you'll see that with the banter between us on stage."

Originally created by Jamie Lambert and Matt Pagan, the two friends used social media to find three further singers to complete the group's line-up.

They recruited Michael Auger and Thomas Redgrave, and found Richard Hadfield on YouTube, after hearing his rendition of 'Bring Him Home' from Les Misérables.

One month after the group were formed, the five friends decided to audition for Britain's Got Talent (BGT) as they had 'nothing to lose'.

They went on to win the popular talent show, beating Bars and Melody and Lucy Kay in the final.

"There have been so many great experiences since BGT", Matthew said.

"But one that really stands out is Brighton Pride where we performed in front of 50k people, because, to have that many people sing 'Let It Go' back to us was just incredible."

The 21-year old added: "Before we go on stage, we all put our hands in the middle and shout 1, 2, 3 Collabro as our good luck charm.

"We will always warm up together and have a bit of a team talk. We get on so well as we are always supportive of each other."

The show starts at 7pm at the theatre in George Street.

Tickets cost from £23.40 to £43.40.

Al Murray

STAND-UP comic Al Murray will be at the New Theatre Oxford on Monday, March 9.

The 46-year-old who studied Modern History at St Edmund Hall in Oxford, is touring the UK as part of his 'One Man, One Guvnor' tour.

He hit headlines in January after announcing he is running against Ukip leader Nigel Farage for South Thanet in May's elections.

The gig at the George Street theatre will cost £29.40 with the show starting at 7.30pm.

YolanDa Brown

BRITISH saxophonist and composer YolanDa Brown will be at Didcot's Cornerstone on March 14.

The 32-year old from East London won a MOBO Award in 2008 and 2009 for the Best Jazz Act.

Tickets cost from £14.50 to £16 and the gig, at the Station Road venue, starts at 8pm.

Tony Stokwell

TV personality, medium and psychic Tony Stockwell will be at The Mills Arts Centre in Banbury on Thursday, March 12.

Tickets cost £19.50 and the show starts at 8pm.

Banjo magic in Abingdon

PROMOTING his new album 'Incidents and Accidents', Dan Walsh will show why he is regarded as one of the finest banjo players in the country, when he arrives at Abingdon's Unicorn Theatre tonight.

Since he started playing the banjo in his early teens, the talented musician has seen himself go from a teenager with a dream to a successful performer, which has come with three studio albums, one collaborated album and constant praise from BBC Radio 2 presenters.

However, the musician was modest about his recent triumphs.

"I'm not sure I have realised that I'm a successful musician! But there are certain moments that make you feel like you've really got somewhere," he said.

"Being played on Radio 2 was great because I used to listen to the folk show religiously as a teenager, so to be on there myself was a great feeling.

"From a more musical point of view though, George, my mentor, telling me that I did a great show was just about the best praise I can get. He's a very honest guy and for him to say that, I knew he really meant it and he's probably the best judge."

By James Richings
jamesr@taylornewspapers.co.uk

After playing the guitar for four years Dan moved onto the banjo, which is where he found his gift in music.

His debut album, 'Tomorrow's Still to Come', released six years ago, received universal acclaim from music critics, and his second album, 'The Same but Different' (2012) also netted similar reviews.

He also recorded a collaborated album with harmonica player Will Pound, in the same year Will received a nomination for 'Musician of the Year' at the 2012 BBC Radio 2 Folk Awards.

"It's always nice to get praise and that people like what you do", Dan said.

"I can't say I really think about it too much though, I just want to improve all the time in my playing and present the best show I can. I think once I go on stage I enter that crazy world of performing and it takes over me."

He added: "My dad came up with a really great bit of advice when I was a teenager. He referred to a blues song I did at a gig and he said 'sing every song like you sing that one – you really put your heart into it'. I think my singing has been better ever since."

"The other piece of advice came from my mum. When I was finding being a musician pretty hard she said 'you've still got something to say as a musician'. She was right and it spurred me on to really pursue my career."

The doors at the Thames Street venue open at 7.30pm and tickets cost £10.

Top folk trio hit Didcot

CONSIDERED to be one of the most accomplished folk musicians in the country, Peter Knight will be at Didcot's Cornerstone Arts Centre this Saturday, along with fellow musicians Roger Flack and Vincent Salzfass.

The three friends came together to launch Peter Knight's Gigspanner,

They are at the Station Road centre as part of their UK tour, which will see the trio perform in in Aylesbury, Bury and Leicester before ending the run of shows in Basingstoke.

Peter, who was once a member of the popular folk-rock group Steeleye Span, revealed his gratitude towards his musical companions.

"Roger and Vincent are wonderful to play music with," Peter told the Guardian.

"Gigspanner is a beautiful accident, and we always remind ourselves that we love playing in this trio.

"We work hard to find the songs and tunes that will allow us to play our best, and the trust between us allows us to be completely open and creative when playing together. We are lucky."

He added: "This will be our first time performing at the Cornerstone Arts Centre, so it's always good to play at a new venue."

The 67-year old was a member for five years before leaving the group in 1977, just before the band went on a two-year hiatus.

He has since worked with musicians from all over the world, and embarked on a successful solo career, which includes three solo albums.

"Our music is based on traditional music from the British Isles, and treated in a way that does not hinder our musical creativity," he said.

"We all enjoy music from other cultures and these influences do filter into our musical vocabulary. Being a trio, there is plenty of space for the three of us to play the best music we can.

"Inspiration for new material comes from all sorts of unexpected sources, and not always from other musicians.

"I do hear lots of music that I love, and loving it and hearing it is enough for its essence to feed into my own music subliminally," he added.

Tickets cost from £13.30 to £15 and the gig starts 8pm.

Call 01235 515 444 for tickets.

Alfa brings out new model

REVIEW: Alfa Romeo MiTo Progression

By James Richings

NAMED after the Italian cities of Milano (Mi) and Torino (To), the Alfa Romeo MiTo first burst onto the European scene in 2008, where it has been a popular hit.

After winning numerous awards in his first few years of production, which includes What Car's? Supermini category at the 2010 Reader Awards, the Italian manufactures have upgraded it to a 2015 model, called the MiTo Progression.

Following on from the 2014 MiTo which included a revamped interior, standard five-inch touchscreen infotainment system (plus TomTom satellite navigation on certain models), subtle exterior upgrades, more engine options and a higher level of standard equipment, the 2015 range has been further enhanced with two new trim levels.

The Alfa Romeo MiTo Progression offers a choice of engines including the insurance-friendly 78hp 1.4-litre engine, which is reintroduced with Start&Stop and EU6 certification resulting in an official combined fuel economy figure of 50.4 MPG and CO2 emissions of 130g/km.

The Progression has an on-the-road price of £12,670, while the sporty new "Junior" recalls the legacy of the 1966 Alfa Romeo GT 1300 Junior – an renowned predecessor which made Alfa Romeo's legendary style and driving pleasure, available to a younger audience by offering big performance from a small-capacity engine.

It may be the new entry point into the Alfa Romeo range, but the MiTo Progression comes equipped with the high levels of features expected of a premium hatchback including air conditioning, a leather steering wheel and gear shifter and Alfa Romeo's Uconnect five-inch colour touch screen infotainment system with Bluetooth; voice recognition; USB / auxiliary inputs along with steering wheel remote controls.

In terms of safety, the MiTo Progression is equipped with Vehicle Dynamic Control (stability, braking and traction control with hill-holder), TPMS (tyre pressure monitoring) and seven airbags.

While 15-inch alloy wheels, a rear spoiler and titanium grey headlight and rear light surrounds aim to boost its visual appeal.

Baldock rescues a draw for U's

United leave it late to claim point at home to Morecambe

A LATE strike from George Baldock extended Oxford United's unbeaten run to three games with a 1-1 draw at home to Morecambe on Tuesday evening in Sky Bet League 2.

A lacklustre U's side had been trailing for most of the match to an opportunistic Kevin Ellison effort and looked to be crashing to a seventh home defeat of the season before Baldock rescued a point with a fabulous solo effort from outside the area.

The draw came days after a hard-fought 0-0 stalemate at in-form Portsmouth, which had drawn United plaudits for their determined performance.

U's fans were less pleased with Tuesday's showing, but head coach Michael Appleton defended the performance.

"We've shown a tremendous bit of character in the second half," he told the club.

"Obviously we started the game poorly, which didn't help, and going behind is difficult in any game of football.

"I felt there was a lot of anxiety about the place tonight and it probably filtered into the players a little bit, but they showed character."

Goalscorer Baldock declared himself pleased after netting for the first time since joining Oxford on loan from Milton Keynes Dons last month.

He told the club: "It's three unbeaten, it's something to work on.

"We want to get points away and win our home games, but that's promotion form and we have to realise where we are at the moment.

"We've taken a point when we're 1-0 down with ten minutes to go."

Baldock added: "It wasn't good enough and the gaffer got into us at half-time.

"We tried to rectify that and I don't think Morecambe came out of their half in the second half, so surely the boys have got some kind of credit from today."

U's travel to promotion-chasing Bury on Saturday, looking to widen the gap between themselves and the League 2 relegation zone, which currently stands at five points.

Elloway thriving at London Welsh

HOOKER Rob Elloway insisted he is enjoying his time at London Welsh despite the club's continuing struggles in the Aviva Premiership.

The 31-year-old joined the Exiles on loan from Championship side Cornish Pirates last month and started in Saturday's 50-12 defeat at home to London Irish.

But despite Welsh's continuing struggles he admitted he is loving his time at the club, which is due to run until the end of the season.

"For me personally it's gone even better than I'd hoped," he said.

"I'm just chuffed to be getting a chance to have a crack at the Premiership and at 31 that's something I thought I might not do, so I feel really fortunate about that.

"I feel like I've done alright since I've got here - I've even shed a few pounds, which is great news."

Welsh have struggled with the transition to Premiership rugby after winning promotion last season and after making the step up himself Elloway acknowledged it was a big challenge: "There is a massive jump up to the Premiership so giving it 100 per cent week in, week out is sometimes not enough, but it's not through lack of effort."

Road kings Oxford City chalk up seven against Gloucester

OXFORD City are now the top scorers away from home in the top six tiers of English football following their phenomenal 7-1 thrashing of Gloucester City on Sunday, taking their total to 44 goals from 17 away matches in Vanarama Conference North.

Darren Pond fired City into the lead in spectacular fashion after 13 minutes, unleashing a thunderbolt into the top left-hand corner from the edge of the area.

But the lead was shortlived as Ross Staley's looping header evaded City goalkeeper Salva de la Cruz.

But that sparked the visitors into action and just moments after Tom Winters had restored the lead with a low drive through a crowded box, Jose Lapoujade made it 3-1 when he headed in a corner.

Felipe Barcelos grabbed City's fourth on the stroke of half-time, arriving late at the back post to convert Winters' deep cross.

Ten minutes into the second half it was five, as substitute Declan Benjamin turned excellently on the edge of the box before curling his shot into the top corner.

Another substitute, Javier Rodriguez, emphatically netted City's sixth just moments after his introduction and with full-time looming Pond notched his second with another terrific shot to complete the rout.

As the Oxfordshire Guardian went to print on Wednesday evening, City were playing at home to FA Trophy finalists North Ferriby United, while on Saturday they host Colwyn Bay.

Welsh pummelled by fellow strugglers

LONDON Welsh crashed to a heavy 50-12 defeat to fellow Aviva Premiership strugglers London Irish at the Kassam Stadium on Saturday.

It was the seventh time this season the Exiles have conceded 50 or more points and leaves them 23 points adrift at the bottom of the table.

The hosts conceded two tries in a calamitous opening five minutes, letting Alex Lewington and Tom Fowlie through for Irish, and they struggled to match the visitors' intensity throughout the rest of a one-sided first half.

A James Tincknell try provided some brief respite for Welsh, but it proved short lived as the visitors ran in four more tries before the break.

Shane Geraghty crossed twice for the away side, with Matt Parr and Andrew Fenby inflicting further damage on a battered Welsh, who trailed 38-7 at half-time.

The hosts were much improved after the interval, but they couldn't prevent Lewington from grabbing his second try of the afternoon on the breakaway in the opening minutes of the half.

Wing Fenby was sin-binned as Welsh began to apply some pressure and they made their man advantage count as Taione Vea powered over the line for their second try.

But it was Irish who would have the final say as Lewington completed his hat-trick right at the death.

Witney win derby battle with Grove

THE derby match between Grove RFC and Witney RFC ended in a 25-24 win for the West Oxfordshire side – their eighth victory in a row.

It is the second time this season the two sides have been split by a single point - their last encounter ended with a 15-14 win again for Witney.

Grove started Saturday's match strongly but it was Witney who scored the first try, and they piled on the pressure as they built up a 15-5 lead.

However Grove rallied, as Guy Nicholl went over and then converted to reduce the deficit to just three points at the break.

And in the second half Grove found themselves with a 19-15 lead, before Witney pulled back a try to move back in front by a point.

Another try for Witney gave them a six point advantage, meaning Grove needed a converted try in the final moments of the match to steal the win.

Cash Chilvers was then able to force his way over the line and Dave Johnson lined up for the crucial kick that would give Grove the win.

But his effort flew wide, and it was Witney who celebrated a closely-fought victory.

The result sees Witney sit fifth in the South West 1 East standings with 62 points, while Grove are 10th on 45 points.

Another vital win for Stars

OXFORD City Stars made it two wins in a row for the first time this season after they defeated Bracknell Hornets 7-4 on Saturday.

A hat-trick from Evan Mackintosh and further goals from Joe Oliver, Josh Oliver, James Pentecost and Joe Edwards gave Stars their second victory inside a week.

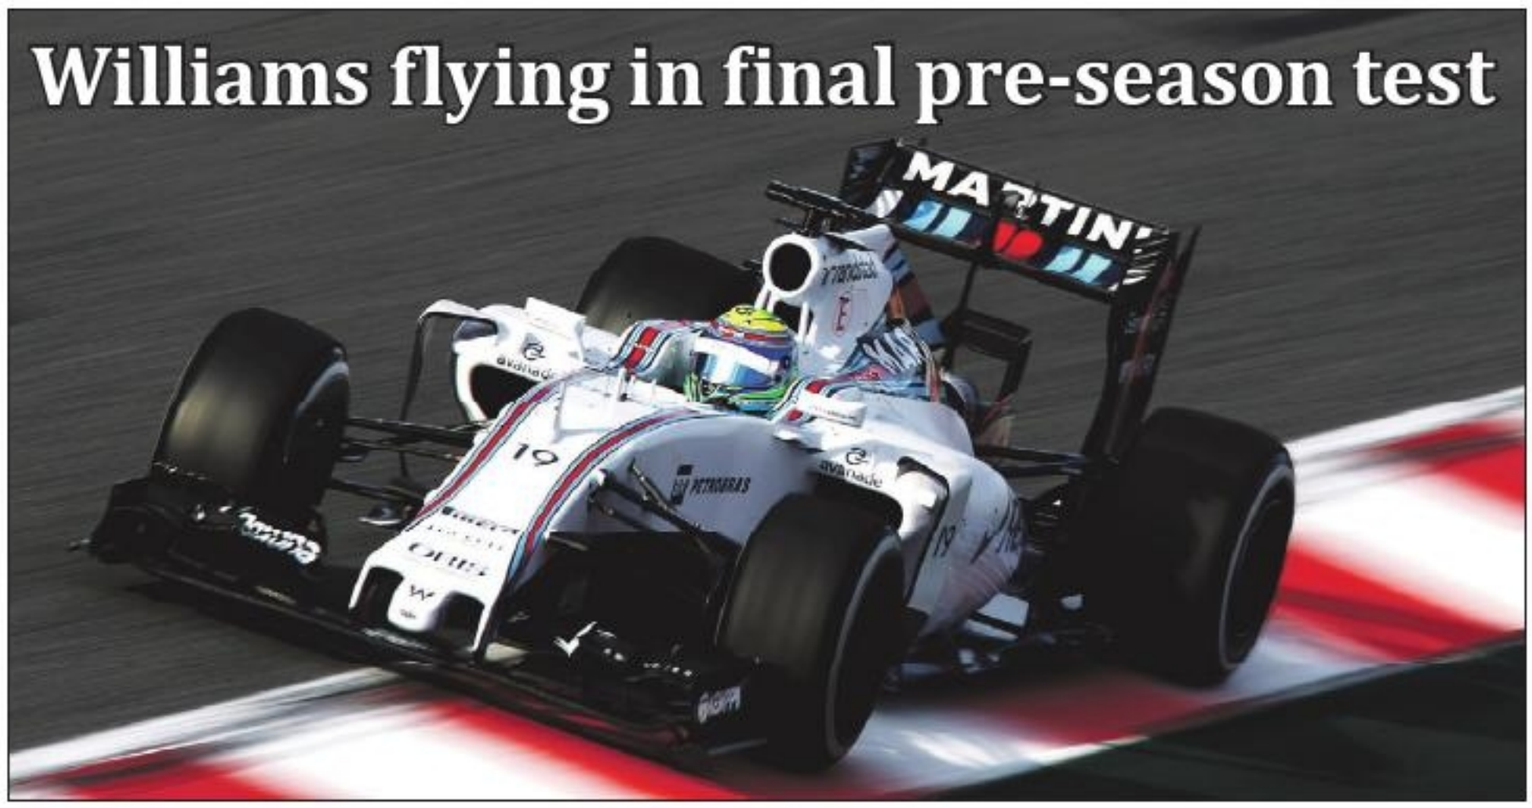
The Hornets made the better start, but it was Stars who had a 2-1 lead at the end of the first period.

Bracknell battled back into the lead, but Stars also fought back to take a goal advantage into the final 20 minutes.

And Stars pressed home towards the end of the match to pick up another crucial win as they look to avoid the drop from the National Ice Hockey League 1 division.

The result gives Stars a two-point lead over main rivals Cardiff Devils,

Williams flying in final pre-season test



IT was a successful final test for Williams Martini Racing last week, as all the teams concluded their preparations for the first race of the F1 season in Australia on March 15.

Felipe Massa led the way on day one, while Valtteri Bottas claimed the fastest time on day four.

And the pair were second only to reigning champions Mercedes on days two and three.

Rod Nelson, Williams' chief test and support engineer, said: "Both drivers have worked extremely hard throughout the test and the entire team have worked very well together.

"We are really looking forward to Melbourne."

The test wasn't quite as smooth for Enstone-based Lotus, after Pastor Maldonado crashed on Sunday following a systems issue with the car.

However he had previously set a best lap of 1:26.705 on Friday, while team-mate Romain Grosjean managed a 1:24.200 to come fifth in Saturday's running.

Lotus' technical director Nick Chester said: "Certainly ending the final pre-season test in the barriers was not part of our game plan, but overall we've had a productive two weeks in Barcelona.

"We now have a quick turnaround to get the car back to Enstone, then shipped out to Australia at the end of the week."

Win secures cup final

FOOTBALL: Mansfield Road Ladies are through to the final of the Southern Region Women's Football League's League Cup following their 3-1 win at Woodley United Ladies.

Rosie Paige-Smith was on target for the hosts, but they were beaten thanks to goals from Lucie Bowden, Cecile Deer and Melissa Stickland.

In the Premier Division, Danielle Anderson and substitute Sian Riley-Phillips scored as Oxford City Ladies won 2-1 at Newbury Ladies in their match on Sunday.

Three sign for U's Women

FOOTBALL: Hannah Cox, Lindsay Pinker and Helen King have all signed on for Oxford United Women's upcoming FA Women's Super League 2 season.

Goalkeeper Cox and midfielder Pinker will both be available for United's opener at home to Watford on March 19th, while King will miss the start of the season while she is abroad studying.

The U's have also been placed in Group 3 of the FA WSL Continental Tyres Cup, which starts in July when United entertain Yeovil Town

Hawks win tough victory

HOCKEY: Kit Cutter scored the only goal of the game as Oxford Hawks won 1-0 at home to Lewes in the South Hockey League Premier Division.

The struggling visitors attempted to stifle Hawks with some physical tackles, but they couldn't prevent the hosts from securing a league double when Cutter struck home after picking up a loose ball inside the D.

Luke Sanders is Kidlington's penalty shoot-out hero

GOALKEEPER Luke Sanders saved four penalties in a tense shoot-out to send Kidlington through to the third round of the Hellenic League's Bluefin Sport Supplementary Cup on Saturday.

Despite leading thanks to Jack Quainton, they were forced to penalties by Division 1 West side Tuffley Rovers when Mark Ford equalised to make it 1-1.

But Sanders was in inspired form in the shoot-out, saving four of five penalties to send the hosts through 2-1.

They will be joined in the next round by Shrivenham, who won 1-0 at home to Tytherington Rocks courtesy of a Steve Olphert strike.

In the Premier Division, Ardley United came from behind to beat Brimscombe & Thrupp 2-1 at home with goals from Ricky Johnson and Conor Ingram.

Thame United were 5-3 winners to Cheltenham Saracens, but Oxford City Nomads went down 3-0 to Flackwell Heath and Milton United were crushed 8-0 at Binfield.

On Tuesday evening, Chinnor threw away a two-goal lead to lose 3-2 at home to Wokingham & Emmbrook.

Ryan Chapman and Stuart MacLellan put the hosts firmly in charge, but Julian Harley pulled one back before the break, Jake Butler equalised from the penalty spot in the 77th minute and James Charlton volleyed home the winner in the sixth minute of stoppage time.

RAILWAYMEN BACK ON TRACK

Winless run comes to an end with shock 2-0 victory over league leaders

By Matthew Bruce
news@taylornewspapers.co.uk

JOINT manager Ian Concannon is optimistic Didcot Town can push on to reclaim their place in the Southern League Division 1 South & West play-off spots after stunning league leaders Merthyr Town on Saturday.

The Railwaymen came into the game without a win in their last nine matches.

But second-half goals from Adam Learoyd and the prolific John Mills gave them a surprise 2-0 home victory.

"We joked during the week that maybe against the best team in the league our results might finally change and that's what happened," said Concannon.

"I think this can kick-start our season now and give us a bit of momentum to take into the games we have coming up.

"I've been saying for a little while that our performances of late have been better than the points we've been picking up, so it's frustrating that the results just haven't been coming.

"Our confidence hasn't diminished at all during that time, but I do think this will give us a big lift."

Didcot make the short trip to local rivals Wantage Town on Saturday and are looking to continue their newfound momentum.

The hosts have struggled this season and currently find themselves just two places above the relegation zone, but Concannon has warned his players against complacency.

He said: "It's a local derby, so I expect it to be a very, very tough game.

"I think it's going to be more about mental attitude than about quality and skill.

"If you're not prepared to scrap for everything then you're going to come unstuck.

"You shouldn't need much motivating for a local derby.

"People will look at the table and say we should win it, but it's all about who wants it more on the day.

"If we want it more, with the quality we have in our side, we should win, but if we don't fancy it we could find ourselves in trouble."
